Market Overview

2009 has witnessed some of the toughest economic conditions in a generation and a financial crisis stemming from 2008 that has pushed the UK into recession. Against this backdrop law firms of all sizes have felt the effects. There have been many well publicised redundancies across a variety of firms across the UK as Law Firms have had to react to the drop off in work levels. Initiatives to retain staff are plentiful ranging from by reducing hours, reducing salaries and offering flexibility. Firms have also been reviewing trainee recruitment with the deferment of training contracts for this year.

Commercial property and residential conveyancing remain becalmed and from the latter part of 2008, corporate and banking teams felt the squeeze as funding all but dried up. Traditionally in times of economic hardship, litigation and insolvency work has risen and whilst these specialist areas have remained relatively busy, there has not as yet been the upsurge in work that many would have predicted.

Against this rather bleak picture there have been some practice areas that have acted as a real counterbalance and are busy. Employment departments report high utilisation rates as they deal with a raft of redundancy and restructuring matters. Similarly, those practices that have strong insurance litigation capabilities are finding business is brisk. There remains a genuine demand for high quality defendant pi lawyers, especially those in niche areas such as insurance fraud. Likewise, Health and Safety/regulatory is seen as a growing area and lawyers with this skills base have found that they are more marketable than most.

One part of the market stands in isolation and that relates to senior or lateral hires. Firms continue to invest in partners and/or senior associates who have proper business cases and work to bring. Some practices see this as a time to invest in quality that might not otherwise be in the market.

With firms protecting cashflow and their balance sheets until conditions improve, the message in respect of salaries is that there is little or no appetite to effect any form of increase. There may be small inflationary awards but the consensus is that salary levels in 2009 will remain pegged to the rates set in 2008.

Benefits and Trends

Pensions are now very much the norm with contributions from firms ranging from 3-8%, with 5% being a typical contribution. Death in service benefit is usually linked to the pension scheme. In addition, private medical insurance is now often a standard benefit. Over the last couple of years bonus schemes paying between 10-20% of salary have become more prevalent at the larger national firms with the payment mechanisms linked to individual and/or team/firm performance. With so much emphasis placed on the work/life balance, holidays are seen as being more important than ever. Standard holiday entitlement is 25 days, increasing with years' service. Over the last few years flexible benefits schemes have become more commonplace enabling employees to choose the benefits that most suit them. Linked to these schemes is the ability to buy or sell holiday days.

Partner Remuneration

Partner remuneration varies greatly across firms. Much will depend on whether you are a salaried, fixed share or equity partner as well as the discipline in which you practice. The differentials cannot adequately be categorised in this survey. If you would like to discuss partner remuneration, please contact one of our consultants.
